

I killed your television your Computer Is Next

I watched you change my view of the world,
The static spirit box origins to the drivel and drama the conflict and advancements to the real life pain of the fame mongers. I will tell you this today in all honesty if there was ever a fence of indecision this is it, media as a form of information or a tool of mind control and populous control. I will not lie to you I am a friend and a foe of all of it. As we look through the time of humankind collecting and chattering about what ever strikes us for the time. Ancient Greek like Aristotle, Plato and Socrates spoke in public and shaped a whole time period influencing times even 2000 years later. The written word from Egyptian times on the Rosetta stone some believe was nothing more than the news of the day. The news reels of the 40-50 have kept us informed and glued to our seats. The family living room came alive when they listen to Sin Eater or the mysterious traveller or even my favorite radio drama Suspense these horror type storeys were different then your regular BBC news cast or country and western music. Still this was all just a distraction from what was really going on, people tuned in but should have been tuning out the waves themselves may have had an effect on why it all took hold but one thing was for sure video was about to kill the radio star. There are many channels that were available on what would come to be known as basic cable about 13 to 20 channels depending on your area; they all had one thing in common the nightly news.

Telling you one brief statement to sum up a very big subject “the war is over” the news reports what it can given the time.

The TV gave use the false since that by watching different news and putting the similar reported facts and try and figure out there story his story and the real story somewhere in between, this is somewhat true but you still are only getting what you are being told. The computer is just a bigger version of the same selective machine giving you most information but I may remind you “ you do not know what you do not know” you can go into micro analyze each subject you hear on the news and find out about CERN and the LHC Large Hadron Collider and really sink your teeth into that and all subjects. They called it information overload but let's strip away the bulk of the information and misinformation excluded it does not leave a very complete study of any subject, in reality it gives people only a taste of each subject while giving daily updates on what used to say world war has broken out and now says "CEO declares employees lawsuit put the company out of business"

There was a term don't cut off your nose to spite your face meaning don't be the cause of your own problems.

Eyes wide open, look at the real story as an amorphous subject that minute by minute it is ever changing because a static story is most likely a rehearsed story life is chaos and randomness how could we even believe one person's perspective of any story. TV gave me friends in the trailer park there were islands of laughs history bites feel good movies Sunday night. A weekend of TV was rewarding I would say as rewarding as the computer but when swimming with the fish know that your jewelry is not catching the eye of the muskie, meaning stay off the big subject talking on the computer is not happening in the private walls of your parents' bedroom when you look over the shoulder you should see the whole world wide web does looking back from every corner of this round world and in every basement of every building is someone looking just for that one bit of information to take your whole life and turn it into their own personal dream life. In what kind of world do we inform ourselves with mediums that can destroy our lives is this story really worth it and what of the entertainment value of TV Radio Computers. TV seemed to me at its best to let you experience something you either were too young to experience or you could be taken to a place in your imagination much like the radio the hanging drama became so common that sports like wrestling known as a martial art proven, in France on cave drawings, to be over 15000 year old but now hulk Hogan and his hulkamaniacs . Bikers become corporate wars are launched over smoke show and people pay more money just to be part of it all shake your head your tech is stuck.

We developed and redeveloped the same Radio TV computer again and again in so many different cases that everyone wants the information boxes but is it getting better or just more different packages version one is bad version two is worse but version three will be so much better and we keep buying into this when we know there is better. With TV the marketers must know the demographics of the viewers in order to sell more products the popular shows advertised the popular products we see we buy and they keep selling. Computers track every site you go to, visit too much porn sites you get emails for Viagra you go to survival sites you get email from survival gear and fresh water devises you may even get some messages about zombies. TV days you had to be very careful that there was truth in advertising you needed to make sure you did your research so that the viewer didn't poke holes in your theory's. People have been ruined speaking the wrong way on TV the computer age brings us epic fails challenges to burn yourself sing along with the whole world see the news happening unedited and MR pregnant.

on YouTube and it goes viral other people do some really world changing good but the computer does not give them their due credit, the computer in all its information does not know simple games our grandparents played the first appearance of the word fuck, it does not know where punk rock really started nor where it went. People that shun new technology are getting the true life experience. Learning about the past through our elders is a collection and a passing on of traditions the computer killed tradition the family unit our ability to talk to each other and because it's all on the internet if we didn't see it on the net it just isn't there and we will still as people keep fighting the popular media makers the liars of mass deception the internet trolls and G-men but how do we post it up on face book where they have even arrested people for what they say on this Pandora's box of doom. Public demonstrations get publicized on the net as a big riot then nobody cares when people get killed over the perception of social disorder. Kids believe they are so informed full of this misinformation they have no clue why their life does not work out. There was an easy solution all these devices have a switch it is a two way switch attached to both you and the device it may have a symbol or a word but it will do two things, the machine will power off and your real self will slowly show.

We first started talking to each other about survival and now we talk to each other about bits bites trend YouTube face book and how much money can we pay to see two and a half men act like fools.

These are the channels of my life, like sands through the hourglass; there were two dials UHF and VHF Ultra high frequency and Very high frequency they are used to make radio and TV signals. There is only one channel on the UHF dial that I need to talk about.

In my home province Ontario we have a very long running station it is sometimes found on channel 19 or 24 but it will always be channel 2 for me. This is a government ran station that focuses on art culture Ontario films history. It is rich with culture often including BBC or British Broadcasting due to the fact that in Canada we still are linked to the queen of England.

I cannot tell you much for history because I was too taken aback by Nash the slash burning and playing the electric violin. Seeing noise being played by a guy in a meat dress long before lady gaga did it. The short movies the imported movies and the ultimate DR. Who . This channel was always free if you had a TV you could get it if not you just needed an antenna. Channels like this gave us a feeling like we were part of a very culturally rich country and it was ok to be snooty listening to circle jerks(punk band) while discussing Mortecai Richler and Farley Mowat, then go camping or hiking, the TV led to the outdoors looking at life through a screen was cool if what you see becomes uncomfortable you can switch channels or even turn it off, people would see an ad for six flags then it was on a plan was born road trip to wonderland we are going on some coasters because someone on TV said so and damn it, it looks like a good time. Over all channel two was the channel that made me want more out of life more books a rich knowledge of the country and a little bit broader thinking as far as life goals and most of this happened just over a movie or a talk about a new book. I always wanted to be one of the weirdoes that could sometimes be seen on TVO.

Channel three global this is one for the records a very conservative play by the rules kind of station goes off the air at night every night plays the national anthem goes to a test pattern screen many people sit and stare at these, thinking or meditating tripping or just caught in a stair. One night after the changing from stimulus to dead air with just a picture and a solid tone I for one sat in unknowing expectation like people at the right place and at the right time we waited not knowing what was to come, a face crowds the camera it's the janitor at global he says that he is going to play some very cool stuff from just over the border from the states and he did for a while night after night then he got caught and they realized hat he had tapped a new market of creatures of the night. They allowed him to play more tamed down movies all night but to keep with broadcast guidelines they went off the air for about a half hour then back to regular programming like nothing ever happened. This was most likely the start of my insomnia I needed to see the strange the fantastic the real life freak show that I knew was hidden and I could catch glimpses on the TV, but I always thought there is something missing from TV like it didn't have the whole story much like the internet now days so I kept looking see on TV find in real life research led to discovering things not even covered on TV. The computer nerd was someone who could stay up for days and days and never see a TV broadcast, but their eyes would be red and they were delirious from lack of sleep they played Dungeons and Dragons so they talked in riddles rhymes and basic program speaks.

Channel four was a much different format or lack of format I liked it, sometimes it would have public service shows like apple drive by the boy scouts at the public library or sports events like women's volley ball were you could see your best friends mom putting up the winning serve or see a little league game there was bowling, but one thing was it was all local no matter where you were it was local events news community notes. What made channel four different other then the heavy local content was the rest of the time or should I say most of the time the channel just scrolled a loop of local events public notice news and adds for local business it told us the time in a corner had pop up adds on the side and news that was ever changing but somehow very much the same, sound hauntingly like the early days of the computer BBS and Telnet even on into windows with the pop ups. This was an all in one channel not the most popular but at least once a day someone would say put on channel four I need the proper time or date temperature or the location of that local event. Sometimes this proves you don't need the highest rating or the funniest most expensive shows, maybe you just need a channel that serves many purposes so many people will use it, this format is still used on some channels still to this day. The scrolling along the bottom and the small screen surrounded by all kinds of changing info for the ADD culture I am surprised that there isn't a lot more of that on TV but I guess in a way all channels are now a little like that and the computer stops your page from loading to load a pop up commercial , and will not let you skip adds all the time before watching an old show. I would like to discuss channel five but first I must say these are the channels I knew them as all over They were on different channels this is an observation of a generation not a historical time line you can get that on the computer, I watched on average most days about 4-16 hours depending on the day and my ability to stay up, recording movies and copying them could mean a 48 hour weekend and even though eddy Murphy was in some of the shows it was not watching 48hours it was staying awake and watching.

Channel five was PBS that just means public broadcasting system local TV we lived in Sudbury so our PBS came from Detroit and one show as well as DR. Who was the BEAT a music show with Doug Podell if you search this out it is on the computer the episode with Halloween from Detroit this changed my life I knew you could now be strange as PBS did that for me YouTube has done that for many people. For the USA this was pretty liberal, look up Doug Podell now days it's a great story but not the one I am telling today. The flip side was the culture there were shows on books sesame street movie and one of my favorites Once Upon a classic, this told old book stories like theater performances, as well masterpiece theater which also included plays from days of old. I was loving theater live performance of your ideas books anything I guess I just wanted YouTube back then in the 80's. There was lots of focus on keeping culture and morals on TV until they realized that TV could shape the world without them even knowing. The 1950s say this government view of what the world could be at least one small pocket could be apple pie sweet Jane next door beaver cleaver and Richie cuttingham tell us this is what everyone is up to and if your family doesn't fit in there maybe you were part of the other nogoodnix and hooligans so maybe you would just live like they tagged you the poor accepted their fate the rich watched their money from all the roughnecks that would work for the money the weasel boss was keeping. So the rich got richer and the poor got angry the suburbs erupted with a homage to 1977 UK white middle class kids were shaving their heads donning spikes listening to the misfits and GG Allin as well as Skinny Puppy they were complicated people due to their rich interests in all things different a new kind of punk rocker was on the streets in the 1980s dangerous and full of wonder. I have given some more examples of channels but I would like to sum it up by saying there were many cultural channels all over the dial while people were pushing their rights in our country and bombing and fighting in their own we were having broadcasts for many cultures and many of us got to see the culture and enjoy shows in Hindi and Korean now it is like something forced you must watch about al because he is your new leader. No offence meaning to people that will bomb the shit out of themselves and anyone who opposes there doctrine but if we were all playing in a school yard jimmy through sand into Debby's hair ,that it out of the sand. Hitler goes to war and end up a villain bush goes to war and doesn't care hero/monster sticks and stones. People come to a country seeking refuge from the country of their birth but want respect in our country they would be kicked out of the sandbox the first peep of discontent, because of TV and the internet showing things out of context we bow to others and our world is being moulded by radicals religious zealots control freaks and idiots that never listened never learned and really did it.

Channel 2 Ontario's open air the meat dress noise, Nash the slash burning calm.

Channel 3 global Moses cleans floors and plays American splatter movies all night while other stations sleep, we stayed up killing sheep in spaghetti westerns.

Channel 4 the alternate video game VCR setting channel one of the open air channels.

Channel 5 public broadcast station in most areas the public was pretty drab but for some like New York DR Demento and weird al another one rides the bus.

Channel 6 missing 2 more sixes imagine the channel of the devil.

Channel 7 bonjour multicultural was only French lucky 7 for the love of the French.

Channel 8 CBC for all your acceptable Canadian programming

Channel 9 another French channels as well as the local news real text only yes you had to read.

Channel 10 if you were in a French area this also was French but this was the home of the late night horrors gates of hell the shinning suspiria house of exercisam I learned a bit of French from this channel

Channel 11 the power house NBC American drivell till the cows come home made for TV movies news shows

Channel 12 you aren't going to like this anymore then I did another French channel also good for movies late night

The best for last channel 13 should have been doomed and unlucky but it was a great channel filled with movies and Sunday all day action sci-fi and multicultural programming Punjabi afternoons.

I will not go into the addition channels except one 22 free much music a very new thing videos to go with popular songs of the day.

Pay TV you could get movies all day everyday before there were VCR`s there was diligence if you wanted to watch that show on mysteries of the natural world you had to remember 1.the day2.the channel3,the show and you had to call the TV,s mine Friday midnight channel

22 power hour. I personal could watch and understand what I was watching on 6 different channels at one time. One left over from the spirit box days of 1843, you could ask a question go through the channels and the first channel you stopped on would give you the answer if it was more than yes or no you could leave it there and it would explain in detail the answer. I asked where did we come from I flicked the channels very quickly like rolling dice and it stopped on Leonard Nimoy about niburu and the ancient Sumerian people this was the very start of the paranormal craze of now days, from the twilight zone to star trek if you watched you were not only ahead of your time but you were waiting time on subjects that made you a bit of an odd ball. As the Dallas thing was going on for some space invaders amazing Spiderman the world of TV was not only for learning but for a sci-fi revolution never seen since war of the worlds. In 1972 the VCR was starting to take hold its 50,000$ price tag from the 50s

And some companies got on board now for the first time some people could try and save shows cut out commercials and see patterns. The best way to tell you about this beginning will also explain the end of your TV computer and even free thinking, 1975 a name from political authors and lecturists Avron Noam Chomsky who would later explain that you are programming your mind with the information of the mass media machine but you are also giving up your freedom to choose. The biggest best marketers are the ones who do not give you a choice and since you were a new generation your choice was made and you were love`n it. For a while the fantastic was the normal show idea but real shows were lurking, they gave you the news to replace your daily news paper news reels of the past but the propaganda machine was no more dead then the Nazi movement. Befor you can understand you must know the octopus one tactical at the end is the subject around each pad there are many spins on that story at the main body there is a full look at the whole picture and all its aspects if you could see it long enough but in today's news 'by 1981 was reporting on this new way of getting news over your computer, most people still did not have a VCR so what they saw they had to remember themselves but other tentacles were planning to take this new tech and mind fuck us all. This same time they report to us about the very secret bohemian grove a cult that many presidents were members of that is the tip of another tactical the pads on that one include the banking take over the money game and control over the masses but all these tentacles flail and swing switching places and waving around. Just like moon martin`s Bad news, Regan gets shot but this is only a few of the 8 tentacles waving around to distract you and me. Whatever your subject of interest was there was a distraction for you, and if new was your thing the buggles introduced the death of the radio star, money was flowing as a movie star ran the states coke was on the rise chaos culture was being born. Video games heavy metal waistband rebellion and alternative thinking. Groups like Y&R Nicky gets sucked into a cult as a story line the Hare Krishna cult was growing in popularity, Santeria and other cult that involved ritual sacrifice, bhagwan shree rajneesh first bio terrorist act by a large cult group on America. BY this point we realize we are looking at the pads of the octopus and the many circle subjects leading to a very complicated complicated web of distraction, flash forward and at the end of this series of circle subjects we are very far from the point that we are not even talking the same thing. There are so many pads on the eight tentacles that by the time you get close to its spineless body you could not even remember the subject that got you on this search so I will demystify this if I can, there is one fact that if we were free thinking in the beginning what has changed to make us conform to a common majority way of thinking the so called NORM should stand for NO OTHER REPRESENTS ME, we pride ourselves on being tolerant of different people but we punish we kill we austrasize that which is different to the point you must think and do what is within the NORM anything else there are consequences poverty is the first form isolation imprisonment and uninvestigated murder. It's a numbers game we are bought and sold daily we are stolen lied to and yes even subtracted from the populous to feed the cult underground that your TV was originally made for, tricks of the trade the modern day spirit box actually a franks box is a spin on the original TV but we rename things the same name to erase the memory of the original concept so the young and old speak the same language but the words mean something different. After some time of TV replicating the old radio theater with shows like the twig light zone bonanza bugs bunny and other light hearted shows like DR Who and star trek, TV grew into a window into the soul of the octopus an evil mass that is ever changing waving its tentacles of corruption distraction control and greed. The commerce of TV was too great to ignore so another tactical the sales waved around distracting. Once things become about the money you are close to the end because as the Nazi found if you produce enough money you will devalue the money and with poverty comes the lack of interest in the TV so we need another distraction in walks the computer I was into computers since the first wave of home computers they bore more resemblance to a calculating type weighting video game system but the base was there. Due to the fact that computers have found themselves taking over even our thoughts I look at this as the beginning of the end of computers. Wait a minute you just heard that the end of our face book sound cloud YouTube email home pages how could this be true that could never happen, we said in the eights but it did like a switch computers were gone and a segment of our world was lost for a while but very leery of the new computers there was something off about our old friend the computer we were suspicious of this new computer it seemed to do lots more like pictures audio video and yes more crashing glitching and the worst spying on us. The 1990s had happened and slowly by the end old school nerds got on the new computer trip but as I got a 386 most people had a pentium something. There were theories paranoid and otherwise that there was a spy chip in the pentium 2 this was true but exaggerated the RFID was a way of a network finding out who you were and were by accessing your computers ID this was mostly a marketing and surveillance tool but there were sinister theory of the Government turning on your web cam to watch you and tagging your actions to send reports of visited web sites possibly illegal sites. Other than the huge boom in identity theft and passport forgeries this technology was and is pretty harmless but that is just my opinion not very uninformed at that I am sure that Chris Paget would disagree and I respect that. The thing that I found disturbing was internet bots a line in many servers called robots.txt these are the programs that match up like statements and collect them together very quickly some of them talk to instant messaging or internet relay chat or IRC now this is why this caught the interest of the true old school nerds hackers and techno geeks chat boards posting boards and the likes were a thing of the old Telnet system then there was other application like chatter bots that allow people to communicate with the bot. One of the more famous was smaterchild a programme made by activebuddy this was used successfully for marketing, OK computer Radiohead.

with ten million users this was a different animal we were choosing to use messenger services and we kind of overlooked the spy element it was kind of nice when I first searched screwdriver in the mid 1990s I got a lot of matches for Canadian tire home hardware and after the 2000s and these programmes were in full swing typed in screwdriver and I got British band formed 1979 by IAN STUART. I was aware of another change in computers at that point there was a limit to what old info was being inputted onto this internet I went to the edges of this box we see as a vast expanse of information but was it all good that was there?

Young people do not know that a webbot was mostly responsible for the Y2K panic as some people do not know that Slenderman is not based on a real character, this was a product of internet culture the social media equivalent to campfire storeys but when people started acting out there was some violence. Old school computer nerds saw this as a manipulation of the consent of use on social media a kin to filling out countless conduct agreement wavers email spam and even cyber- bullying without having a choice we entered the computer age and we missed the point and when right for the pads of the octopus the confusing circles of truth mimic fiction telling secrets and spreading mistrust of the whole thing. always in the shadows of the internet the so called black hats or simply Hackers attack the world wide web and cause billions in damage and lost information stealing identities as well as money disrupting commerce and in some cases causing injury to humans, by modifying physical hardware parameters, voltage and stuff like that.

but the damage has already been done we are less social in this age of so called social media long way from two cans and a string, We are less informed about the world because our news is top ten sick selfies and man eats himself to death. We now can access history of all thing that the internet deals with but yet face book YouTube email everyday like a mantra not really looking up how to make clean water start fires skin beaver survival sites are exploring the net for information on servival,imagine if you will tomorrow the internet is down and let's say it stays down so long computer show there true purpose type writers stereos TVs and if you were smart libraries but for those everyday people facebooken it see what you do with your computer during a power outage lasting 5 or more hours if you turn it off because it needs power there you go but like laptops if you power it up what do you do with it is there movies books and stuff you still use and how long will that be useful to your life? I used to think these computers Ti994a commodore 64 Atari they would be here forever and though I still programme my TI things will never be the same. the shapeless octopus is at the root of all of the and he could do it again be warned prepare. I really hope you were not expecting for me to tell you who or what the octopus is, I don't know but I know that a chatterbot can be asked in plain English just like the prisoner who is number one. we were not numbers but we are now only free if we are not tethered to a computing device running at 0.5 - 3hz delta wave deep frequency, 3-8hz theta waves mostly when we sleep, 8-12 Hz alpha waves meditative state, 12 -38hz Beta waves problem solving waking state, 38-42hz the spiritual awakening state the fastest of all gamma waves.

At 32-80 Hz and modulating from 0.5hz- 2hz the Taos hum or the hum of the earth can be heard by a small percentage of people monks believed that if you match the hum you will be grounded better than those who do not even hear it due to the focus on background noise. When they're not so many external noises we could hear our internal voices our mind speaks but our hard drive drowns it. Is reality the next revolution 3d world of real experiences or is that a bygone era and we will all sit in rooms staring at screens drooling on ourselves just waiting for the next instruction from our boxes of doom?

I am not saying the 1980s was the greatest time by far it was a time of disillusion and lies truest no one it's me against the world, but in that thinking is the one true point. If it was up to each and every one of us to support ourselves feed ourselves be our own doctor mechanic maid, our own hunter gatherer, our own police military and governing party. Well here is a sobering thought, it is up to all of us together to make things better by living more for ourselves, take care of our own needs for ourselves. Government changes but always does what it has always done people's needs change but always work their way into necessities of life the basics. The TV has always shown use what we want and need are you part of the blank generation, it tells you what is frowned upon absolute and what you can get away with. TV makes you feel and in the past it wanted you all to feel good, if you fit into the beaver cleaver life or the happy days life, the depression that comes with the knowing that was all what the right hand was doing well slapping the left side or all our faces and that slap was our current reality being fed to us on our computers, TV , radio. With all this access and reliant on the only forms people still use to communicate, a war could break out in Toronto and people in Minden would know nothing about it if nobodies posts get edited off the internet, the news in all its forms just doesn't report it how wide spread could a war get not being cover on any form of mass media.

The answer is always just a guess but when I walk around now days I have no money for anything but my bills they are structured to imprison people that do not break the law, the others there are many real prisons, not that poverty isn't a real prison in some cases its worse you don't need to try and get out you are already out but like the (criminal) you are always scard from that experience. I am weighting this book only to shed light on the fact that if you like the time you're in make tomorrow better so your kids do not have to live under this money hungry feed me more over privileged self important war pig or a society. My ancestors ate the food they grew wore the skins of the animals they took to survive they thanked the great creator in whatever name he may be known as to you, they talked to their young leaving no mystery of the duties and responsibilities that were put on them by accepting their birth they need to understand that now is the time to fix tomorrow if you wait until you are my age you will only be able to Wright about and tell of the way it was and the way it could be if we step up take charge of as many things as we can help each other because there is a myth that people have always needed help it comes from way back to kings churches and the forming of governing bodies. As a baby we need our mothers to nourish and nurture us as we question we need our fathers strong men who know many things and they know how to learn listen teach and how to allow the bird to leave the nest it is up to the father to be strong. The brother is the others all others who stand with you in jail in a bike gang in native society and in our friends list, they stand and bring knowledge and help in things that need sheer numbers like most things the more people you get involved the more you have a chance of being successful as long as they are all on the same page. This sister is all women in the world, that show they are willing to be giving kind caring to another so that any new child will get what he first needs she must show love and compassion. Then for all the rest of you like a big global family you are my cousins some are close some are far but you are in my family the weird one that does creative but strange things harming no one of course, the one that wears a suit but wishes he could make a better life for all people not just himself, the one at the food bank or the Sally Anne just trying to get clothes for a job interview. The aunts and uncles are closer friends and allies but I am sure you got it. If you do not fall into these mind sets you are rather fond of the way things are I have one thing to say. He who gets to the heavens on the backs of the poor the average the nonspectacular regular people of this earth before you even reach the sky the backs will break and you will fall harder than those who have been kept down to begin your ascent. If you dream of being a god take charge of your life make it better make the lives of everyone around you better and then you will feel the god that you seek is found in the simplest of acts help your fellow man women and children. Advance this rich experience. Live and let live.
